Sid Jacobson JCC Invites All to Break Bread at Solidarity Sukkot in Glen Cove

East Hills, NY, October 17, 2019 – Sid Jacobson JCC, along with other members of the Social Justice Coalition, invites all members of the community to their house of peace in celebration of Sukkot on Sunday, October 20, 12-1:30pm at Iglesia Ciudad De Refugio. This special Sukkot program provides the opportunity to honor the harvest and welcome neighbors. The Coalition invites all to join together to break bread, share happiness, and learn about the common roots between the Hispanic and Jewish communities.

“We are looking forward to this meaningful community event,” says Susan Berman, Director, Center for Community Engagement, Sid Jacobson JCC. “The goal of our Immigration Solidarity and Advocacy Project is to build ally-ship between the Jewish and Spanish speaking immigrant communities, specifically in the city of Glen Cove and this event is one of many helping us to achieve that mission.”

The Immigration Solidarity and Advocacy Project is generously funded through UJA-Federation of New York’s Jewish Life Cabinet and has enabled the development of a working coalition comprised of community partners from the Jewish community and the Hispanic community of Glen Cove. The Coalition identifies the challenges and needs of the Hispanic immigrant community and offers opportunities to stand in solidarity through educational and social justice programming.

At this time, the Social Justice Coalition partners include Sid Jacobson JCC, Congregation Tifereth Israel of Glen Cove, Glen Cove Child Day Care Center, Holocaust Memorial and Tolerance Center, JCRC-LI (Jewish Community Relations Council of Long Island), La Fuerza Unida, and North Country Reform Temple of Glen Cove.
